A political science forum.

World-renowned economist Klaus Schwab, Founder and Executive Chairman of the World Economic Forum, explains that we have an opportunity to shape the fourth industrial revolution, which will fundamentally alter how we live and work. Schwab argues that this revolution is different in scale, scope and complexity from any that have come before. Characterized by a range of new technologies that are fusing the physical, digital and biological worlds, the developments are affecting all disciplines, economies, industries and governments, and even challenging ideas about what it means to be human. Artificial intelligence is already all around us, from supercomputers, drones and virtual assistants to 3D printing, DNA sequencing, smart thermostats, wearable sensors and microchips smaller than a grain of sand. But this is just the beginning: nanomaterials 200 times stronger than steel and a million times thinner than a strand of hair and the first transplant of a 3D printed liver are already in development. Imagine "smart factories" in which global systems of manufacturing are coordinated virtually, or implantable mobile phones made of biosynthetic materials. The fourth industrial revolution, says Schwab, is more significant, and its ramifications more profound, than in any prior period of human history. He outlines the key technologies driving this revolution and discusses the major impacts expected on government, business, civil society and individuals. Schwab also offers bold ideas on how to harness these changes and shape a better future--one in which technology empowers people rather than replaces them; progress serves society rather than disrupts it; and in which innovators respect moral and ethical boundaries rather than cross them. We all have the opportunity to contribute to developing new frameworks that advance progress.

Trade in the modern world economy is dominated by manufactured goods, fast-moving technology and large corporations. This book adapt classical trade models, originating from a largely agricultural world, to analyze the problems inherent in international trade.

En considérant le champ de la déficience intellectuelle comme en constante évolution depuis l'administration du Président Kennedy aux États-Unis et par l'injection de capitaux imposants pour le développement de la recherche dans ce domaine, les auteurs se penchent sur un des volets qui se développe le plus rapidement : l'évaluation. Ce livre est basé sur des données empiriques plutôt que sur la pratique exclusivement ou sur des opinions. Les auteurs ont laissé de côté plusieurs méthodes d'évaluation, mais ont ausculté de nouvelles dimensions de l'évaluation comme l'évaluation de problèmes neurologiques, l'évaluation des aptitudes et des habiletés sociales ou quotidiennes menant à la vie autonome ainsi que l'évaluation de troubles du comportement.
